

Manufacturing Finance Support

Fully grasp the manufacturing costs underlying your business. Silicon Valley’s lost art of cost accounting is alive and well with RoseRyan’s finance pros.

Pain Points:

- Manufacturing operations are a large piece of important business and financial metrics—but few understand it
- Understanding a manufacturer’s key drivers became a lost art in Silicon Valley as manufacturing dwindled in the U.S., and relevant finance talent became scarce
- To grasp how products are performing, management needs to know the margins for each product line in order to make better decisions
- Manufacturers are losing out on better prices for supply and visibility into profitability

Solution:

- Partner with experts who really understand manufacturing financial issues
- Complete design and implementation of a new cost-accounting structure
- Set up operational controls around purchasing and maintaining inventory
- Tap interim resources to perform cost-accounting efforts until an employee is hired

Benefits:

- Robust manufacturing business metrics for better decision making
- Increased productivity and gross margins, and improved efficiencies
- True understanding of profitability and financial impact by product line
- Solid information for price negotiations
- Full-service cost-accounting expertise

Team up with cost accounting experts who know about the many layers of manufacturers’ operations. We’ll pinpoint accurate metrics to aid your decision making.
