

Revenue Accounting Solutions

Reach out to revenue accounting aces to hold down the fort, streamline your process, make sure you're doing it right and help others in the company get on board.

Pain Points:

- Revenue receives a ton of attention (and scrutiny) by stakeholders and auditors
- Reporting revenue is a nuanced job that requires a specialized skill set to do it right
- Revenue accounting experts are hard to find, and companies struggle to make sense of it
- Accountants, salespeople, executives all talk about revenue differently
- Fast-moving companies lack the resources and talent for keeping up with growth

Solution:

- Lean on finance pros to manage revenue accounting on an interim basis
- Evaluate current revenue policies and practices for compliance with GAAP
- Take the effort beyond finance—seek getting finance and sales on one page
- Greatly improve workflow by fixing bottlenecks, gaps and inefficiencies
- Raise the team's skills to match the company's expanding complexity

Benefits:

- Proper revenue recognition policies and procedures in place
- Improved workflow—finance no longer viewed as holding up the works
- Stakeholders outside of finance finally "get" revenue
- Audit-ready documentation that minimizes questions
- A clear path for keeping up with revenue recognition as the business grows

To keep up with growth, companies need access to timely, accurate revenue figures but they often lack the in-house talent to get it done properly.
